Regret touches the emotions, but it may go no deeper than that. We read that Judas regretted what he had done. But repentance involves a change of mind, a change of will. You can have repentance without sorrow, and you can have sorrow without repentance. Regret is remorse over the consequences of an act, but repentance involves a reordering of our lives around God. That is why many of us, even as Christians, have never known God at work in our lives. Until we deal on a radical level with our sin in the presence of God and fill our minds with God's truth so that we act upon it, we will not know His power. ~Gary Inrig
